Breezelets

Last week, the best part of the German fleet, consisting of 22 modern warships and 50 destroyers, were surrendered to Beatty, the British admiral.

As the surrendered German fleet steamed slowly towards the British fleet, floating o'er the breezes from the enemy ships could be heard the refrain: "Rule Britannia, Britannia rules the waves, Britons never, never shall be slaves."

At the big Paris celebration this week, there is to be a great gathering of royalty and presidents.

We did not notice the name of the ex-kaiser among the list.

Ah, well, every dog has his day, and the ex-kaiser had his grand entry into gay Paree some months ago—in his mind.

It is reported that already the German mind is busy at work to build up a bigger and mightier Germany—to smash England.

Probably after the peace terms are announced there won't be little of Germany left to build up more than a colony.

Last week, King Albert made a triumphant re-entry into his capital, receiving a great ovation from many thousands of his people.

Let's see, Belgium was to have been a German vassal and a cat's paw for the ex-kaiser. Wrong again, Bill Hohenzollern.

The ex-Crown Prince has purchased an island in the Zuyder Zee, and intends making his home there.

Playing Robinson Crusoe. But more probably playing "safety first" from the assassin's bullet.

The ex-Crown Prince always said he would rather lose his throne than be a puppet monarch like his cousin, George.

And Cousin Georgie has considerably assisted in fulfilling the the ex-Crown Prince's desire, and besides, making him a homeless puppy.

All the members of the Hohenzollern dynasty will leave Germany in the near future, says a dispatch.

They doubtless know that they will be kicked out—or shot out. Safety first every time for

Community Nurses

COMBAT EPIDEMICS

THE present epidemic of influenza showed the need for extension of voluntary aid organizations.

Health is a great national as well as individual asset. Conversely, disease causes incalculable losses to nations, by unfitting their citizens for active work and by necessitating hospitals, sanatoriums, medical and nursing services, etc.

Fortunately much has been done to alleviate the suffering and reduce the losses caused by average morbidity conditions. But when a disease becomes so very epidemic, it usually happens that the machinery for combating it proves insufficient. It is the literal truth that hundreds, and even thousands, of deaths occur at such times unnecessarily.

The present epidemic of Spanish influenza affords an excellent example of this lack of foresight. Emergency hospitals, bedding and equipment, nursing and other help, have been quite inadequate in a great many places. If it had not been for the work of the Voluntary Aid Detachments organized some years ago by St. John Ambulance Association, the epidemic would have been a veritable calamity. This experience indicated the importance and value of having an organized body of volunteer nurses, such as the V.A.D.'s always available to meet similar contingencies.

The St. John Ambulance Association has already an extensive of V.A. Detachments all across Canada, but they should be extended to every community centre in the country. No village is too small to form the nucleus of a detachment. These units not only acquire valuable instruction in first aid, home nursing and kindred subjects, but, where the citizens or the local authorities assist, they establish depots for sick-room supplies to be used in cases of emergency.

There is no reason why Chinook, and other places around us, should not establish a V.A.D. The influenza epidemic has shown us what great benefits are to be obtained by such a unit. While Chinook has been better prepared to meet the emergency than very many other places, a V.A.D. would have been a very valuable assistance, and would be a great asset to us, particularly if Chinook should carry out its projected hospital scheme.

Chinook Wins Flag and a Crown

As briefly noticed in our last week's issue, Chinook "went over the top" with its Victory Loan. $12,500.00 was the quota allotted to the Chinook district, which comprised an area. With poor crops and the flu epidemic at its worst in the district, $12,500 looked like a night-mare to the Victory Bond workers, and, in addition, some of the best workers were laid up with the flu, and the few workers left felt that if half of the amount allotted could be raised, Chinook district would be doing very well, under the circumstances. The work of canvassing started the last week of the three allotted for selling the Victory Bonds. At the end of the last day between $14,000 and $15,000 had been applied for, winning the Governor General's flag and a crown.

Thanks are hereby tendered for the splendid work done by canvassers and the very generous response of the public in connection with Canada's Victory Loan for 1918. The flag should be treasured as an historic trophy in future years and a fitting answer to the question: "What did you do in the great war?"

$676,057,867 is the grand total of the Victory Loan.
 $500,000,000 was asked for.

CANADA HAS NOW ESTABLISHED
AIR SERVICE FOR COAST DEFENCE

MACHINES PATROLLING THE ATLANTIC COAST

They Will Convey Ships and Watch for Submarines—Minister Of Naval Services Acknowledges Help of the United States In Formation of Service

Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of naval services for Canada, authorized the following statement on the royal Canadian navy's service, or rather on some weeks ago:

The establishment of an air service in Canada, introduced primarily for the defence of the Canadian coasts during the war, has been under consideration for some time, but various difficulties, chiefly concerned with the supply of the necessary material, have prevented its being formed before. Early in 1918, however, the government considered that the formation of an air service for coastal defence was of vital and immediate importance to Canada, and as it was felt that this service should be of a naval character, it was decided in conjunction with the R.C.N., the matter was brought strongly before the notice of the British admiralty.

They were in complete agreement, and sent out an airship officer, Lt. Commander Barron, C.M., in March, 1918, to inquire into the general possibilities. The United States government lent the services of experienced civil engineer, Lieut. Johnson, U.S.N., and acting on the reports of these officers, the admiralty and air minister consented to send more officers, including one for general organization, assisted by a small staff, together with two experienced seaplane officers in command of the stations. These officers arrived in this country on Dominion Day and have, up to date, been settling details of the preliminary organization, in conjunction with the director of naval services, Mr. C. G. Smith.

Preliminary arrangements are now sufficiently advanced to warrant further details of the policy and organization of the service being sent to the public. The title of the service will be the Royal Canadian Naval Air Service, with ranks and insignia similar to those formerly used in the R.N.A.S.

The uniform of the officers will be dark blue serge, cut on military lines, with naval-shaped cap and badges distinctive from the R.C.N., but indicative of the title. The uniform for men will be similar to that formerly in use by the R.N.A.S., and the distinction will be made by rank have not yet been completely settled, but will not be less than those in force in the R.N.A.S.

The thanks of the Canadian government are due to the American government for the latter having so generously consented to supply the personnel for Canada's royal naval air service, until such time as Canadian personnel could be supplied and trained to take their places. The American government has, as well, rendered every assistance possible in the formation of the naval service by allocating the necessary machines, which include aeroplanes, airships and balloons.

The president of the United States, then, and the minister of the naval service and his technical officers have lost no time in arranging for the necessary personnel to make the official announcement that machines are flying on the Atlantic coast, ready to bomb hostile submarines, and to escort convoys and perform other essential services. This has been accomplished with the splendid aid and assistance of our ally, the United States.

Subsequent to former press notice, a great number of applications for cadetship have been received for a comparatively small number of vacancies at the moment. Owing to this small number of vacancies, it is felt that a large number of rejections will cause considerable disappointment, and although the application list is now closed, it is hoped that further expansion will be permitted of the being re-opened, while those candidates selected, but not yet required, will be put on the reserve.

For the first enlistment of cadets efforts are being made to give each province the proportionate number of that its population warrants in comparison with other provinces. Preparation has been made for the flight cadets in the United States, with the exception of a small number of airship cadets who will proceed to England.

The preliminary organization for the provision of the necessary number of men is being completed, and applications will very shortly be entertained, notice of which will appear in the press in due season. Men with experience in the following trades will be asked for: Internal construction engineers, fitters, turners, sheet metal workers, airplane welders, cabinetmakers, boat builders, photographers, and men with stockkeeping or general office experience, together with a number of men for miscellaneous unskilled duties at a later date.

Militants Lose Grip

Germans are Lying to People to Stop Alarm

A noteworthy turning point of the war has been reached. It is about six months since the German general staff launched its last great effort for victory in the west; and two months since the allied command recovered the initiative and began to press the invasion back. The overture in this short period is so considerable that we may well be content to regard it as the prospect soberly.

Taken in conjunction with the Austrian defeat on the Piave in June, the slow decrease of the German menace, a certain recovery in Russia, and news of the victories in Macedonia and Persia, the last two months' progress in the west does indeed warrant "high hopes," but does not warrant an easy, boastful temper. In this time we will have taken some 200,000 prisoners and over 2,000 cannon. The enemy has taken less than a dozen tanks, but so much more that we can afford to make light of our past misfortune. We have recovered lost ground, suppressing the only likely opportunity for a German offensive, and reached a front whence the allies can make a general push.

All these successes have been preliminary to the allied general offensive proper. The German offensive will come into play, for surprise has lost none of its ancient efficacy on the battlefield, and it is to be expected that the German means are now constantly increasing, but the enemy has still wide spaces of French and German soil, which he is retreating, shortening his line in the process.

For a time at least, conditions of war will change. We are now nearly everywhere up against a succession of fortified zones which, to say the least, are not to be taken by surprise. The enemy is to be expected. It may possibly be a long and wearying struggle. On the other hand, as the German offensive is being recognized, the end is certain, there may be a more or less sudden collapse of their resistance. Already their designs that the military caste is losing its grip. Two months of unvaried German success have taken out of the army as well as in domestic affairs.

Its flagrant lying on the subject of public gas suggests a mind distracted, if not actually deranged. A very amusing instance of the mental disorganization is the change of passage from the official German wireless service, issued from Nauen. This bulletin issued by the German press evacuated the St. Mihiel salient in good order and saved their war material.

"All our installations of value, including light apparatus, clothing, stores, pianos, and musical instruments, were brought away in good order. The piano was saved, but 250 square miles of ground were lost, and 15,000 prisoners and 111 cannon were left behind. What a waste!"

Says Five Subs.

Is Monthly Loss

Captain von Mantey Says 125 Officers and Men Regularly

"We are losing about five submarines monthly, and about 125 officers and men," admitted Captain von Mantey of the German admiralty at a luncheon given by the German government in London. The captain went on to say that it did not matter if the amount of American navy losses, because the German navy would decline, because the German navy would decline, because the German navy would decline.

"These raids are especially difficult," he went on, "on account of the fact that the German navy is so small, that it is difficult to replace the losses. If we had spent a couple of millions in building a great fleet, the German navy would be a different matter."

"The speaker made a further admission by declaring that it was thought that the sinking of 6,000 tons of shipping monthly up to August of last year, 'would bring England to reason.' The reply is that the enemy uses our fastest ships for transport service, and these are very difficult to replace."

The Cologne Gazette naval expert, in the course of an article on the decrease in the number of submarines sunk during August, blames the weather but holds firmly to the belief that Germany's triumph or defeat rests with her submarines.

Starve or Freeze Amid the ever-repeating gloom Germans are compelled to read government advertisements in the newspapers reading like this:

"If you don't want to starve or freeze, help to keep the agricultural and munition industries going. Work in these branches where you can. Hand over all the best goods you don't require."

"Made in China" Now! A pencil factory with a daily output of one hundred gross has been started in Shanghai, China. This is the first of its kind in the country. The product compares favorably with that formerly imported from Germany and Austria, and may in time replace all foreign makes.

Greater Part of Wheat Is Grading No. 1

Reports Indicate Grain Is of Very Quality

In the opinion of competent authorities there will be more wheat of the No. 1 Northern grade in Western Canada this year than ever before. Samples of grain which are now being received at the Winnipeg Grain Exchange equal, if they do not surpass, samples received in the same period in previous years, while reports from all over the country indicate that the grain is of a very high quality. Most of the cars of wheat arriving at terminals are grading No. 1.

Exports give as the reason for the excellent grading the exceptionally good weather conditions during the weeks the grain was ripening, and to the fact that there have been no heavy rains since cutting began.

Several fax samples of high grade have also been received at the Winnipeg Grain Exchange during the last few days. Most of the fax grown in Manitoba this year was for the British government from seed imported from Siberia.

Eighty Canadians Blinded in War

Some Sent Back to England for Training

A blinded man to care for the blind is the policy of the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment, as indicated in an announcement at Ottawa by Sir James Loughhead that Captain E. A. Baker, whose sight was destroyed by a German bullet in France three years ago, has been appointed to the department's vocational training school.

Captain Baker, prior to his vocal training, graduated from Queen's as an electrical engineer. He had served just thirty days in German captivity when his vision was destroyed, but in that brief period he had won the Military Cross and the Distinguished Service Order. He was trained at St. Dunstan's hospital for blinded soldiers in London, England, and as a result has been able to resume his old profession, being employed as a "trouble manager" for the Hydro-Electric Power Commission at Toronto.

Although there have been about eighty members of the Canadian forces blinded during the war, the department has decided that all blinded Canadians shall be trained at St. Dunstan's. The department has already established an arrangement for the training of blinded Canadians in this institution before they return to Canada. Already a number of blinded soldiers who have returned to Canada have been sent back to England for training.

Move Big Bridge On Car Trucks

The Traffic Load of Each Hydraulic Jack Was 70 Tons

A series of interesting photographs in the October Popular Mechanics Magazine shows the remarkable feat of moving a 4,000-ton railway bridge on twelve car trucks for a distance of 136 feet. The bridge spans the Missouri river at St. Joseph, Mo., and was moved by means of hydraulic jacks mounted on the car trucks. The average load of each jack was seventy tons. Traffic on the bridge was interrupted only nine hours and fifteen minutes and the actual moving occupied but thirteen minutes.

DOOM OF GERMANY HAS SEALED WHEN BRITAIN ENTERED THE WAR

OLD ENGLAND'S ARMY AS SOLID AS MONT BLANC

American Writer Boasts for Great Britain—Says She Knows No End to a Struggle Save Victory or Death and Has a Bad Record for an Ambitious Despot to Face

We must not let our delight in the astonishing achievements of our boys, bearing themselves for veterans on the bloodiest battlefields in history and against the most intensively trained troops ever sent into action, blind us to the other 'big things' that have been and are being done in this tremendous tournament of the nations. Even in the appointment of the great deeds of our allies, we have naturally dwelt chiefly upon the unexpected and the gloriously bizarre—the slaying of Goliath by the daring Davids. We have not stopped to comment on the solidity of Mont Blanc.

But it is after all on the solidity of the Mont Blanc that we build. We all know the stuff of which Old England is made. What she has done in this war—quietly, unobtrusively, as it were—has surprised no one who knew England's character. English stamina and English history. Imaginative writers have mentioned various elements at which the blundering bully of Berlin lost the war and his chance to conquer and enslave the world; but those who take long views of things and recognize the prime forces which have shaped the destiny of nations since the disintegration of the Roman empire, will recognize the doom of Germany's despotic ambition was sealed on the day that Britain's council of war decided to fight with the forces of freedom.

If the Kaiser possessed prescience or had read his history, he must have shivered at the realization that some one steps on our graves—when he knew for certain that his spies had found out that the stubborn stick-to-it, bulldog-British had decided to live or die with the French. The British have a bad record for an ambitious ruler to conquer and enslave the world. They brought British of Spain to his knees—they curbed the power of Louis the Great of France, they hounded the mighty Napoleon and never let go.

So they entered upon the task of bringing down to paraphrase: "Kipling" the British stick-walked to the Man. They were under obligations to send some eighty thousand soldiers to help the French. The Kaiser, measuring their honor by his own, thought they would performantly and literally redeem the pledge, and let it go at that. Enter his remark about their "contemptible little army." By the fact is that Great Britain alone has added two and a quarter millions of men to the fighting forces of the allies, instead of eighty thousand—a hundred in place of one. That is the British way. When we send fifty thousand men to the front, we send them well—but not till then.

England was no more a military nation than America when the war began. She learned to fight by fighting—and dying. We are profiting to-day by her tragic experience. The Kaiser's American "lads" will come home to us alive and whole because thousands of our blood-brothers from the British Isles have been killed and mutilated—and have taught us how to escape. Britain made her armies white France and her own navy held the rap, and then she poured them into France and Flanders by the million to fight back the eruption of Cava and the threatened to submerge civilization.

What the English have done in this war is too recent to need recapitulation. They gradually took over greater and greater sections of the front. There was naturally a majority (Bolshevists) and a minority (menchists). The two groups were there after named the "Bolsheviks" and the "Menchevics."

Origin of "Bolshevik"

Various explanations have been given of the origin of the name "Bolshevik." A Russian word gives the true explanation of how the word came to be used. It did not arise out of the present Russian chaos. It seems that in 1903, at the second conference of the Russian Social Democratic party, when the methods employed in regard to the direction of revolutionary activities were under discussion, a difference of opinion arose and a vote was taken. There was naturally a majority (Bolshevists) and a minority (menchists). The two groups were there after named the "Bolsheviks" and the "Menchevics."

fenives that finally sent the Germans back to the Hindenburg line—and beyond. They rose to the rank of a full military partner of France—and there is no higher rank.

For all this they paid. There is hardly a home in Great Britain which does not have its unvisited grave in France or Belgium—not a street on which the permanently maimed do not limp to unaccustomed tasks. And the figures show that the percentage of casualties from the Mother Country exceeds the percentage from the overseas dominions, thus disposing of one of the vilest, meanest, most dastardly lies of the whole Satanic German propaganda which charged that the English were nursing their colonies and their allies in the forefront of the battle. Lord Northcliffe estimates their killed alone at 900,000!

England's contributions outside the western front have been worth of a great nation, even if they stood alone. Her navy has kept the seas free for the commerce and the troop transports of the allied world. It has bottled up the German navy from the world; but those who take long views of things and recognize the prime forces which have shaped the destiny of nations since the disintegration of the Roman empire, will recognize the doom of Germany's despotic ambition was sealed on the day that Britain's council of war decided to fight with the forces of freedom.

The Kaiser, measuring their honor by his own, thought they would performantly and literally redeem the pledge, and let it go at that. Enter his remark about their "contemptible little army." By the fact is that Great Britain alone has added two and a quarter millions of men to the fighting forces of the allies, instead of eighty thousand—a hundred in place of one. That is the British way. When we send fifty thousand men to the front, we send them well—but not till then.

England was no more a military nation than America when the war began. She learned to fight by fighting—and dying. We are profiting to-day by her tragic experience. The Kaiser's American "lads" will come home to us alive and whole because thousands of our blood-brothers from the British Isles have been killed and mutilated—and have taught us how to escape. Britain made her armies white France and her own navy held the rap, and then she poured them into France and Flanders by the million to fight back the eruption of Cava and the threatened to submerge civilization.

What the English have done in this war is too recent to need recapitulation. They gradually took over greater and greater sections of the front. There was naturally a majority (Bolshevists) and a minority (menchists). The two groups were there after named the "Bolsheviks" and the "Menchevics."

Origin of "Bolshevik"

Various explanations have been given of the origin of the name "Bolshevik." A Russian word gives the true explanation of how the word came to be used. It did not arise out of the present Russian chaos. It seems that in 1903, at the second conference of the Russian Social Democratic party, when the methods employed in regard to the direction of revolutionary activities were under discussion, a difference of opinion arose and a vote was taken. There was naturally a majority (Bolshevists) and a minority (menchists). The two groups were there after named the "Bolsheviks" and the "Menchevics."

Discordant Sounds
Caused Trouble
Could Play Organ Better Than Trumpet

There is an amusing story told about Sir Frederick Bridge, the famous organist of a cathedral Abbey, and of how he was once guilty of making a "row" within the edifice. It was at the time of the coronation of King George V. One of the rehearsals to take place was that of the state trumpeters, who practiced their fanfares within the building. During their temporary absence Sir Frederick Bridge thought he would see what kind of a satire he could produce, and, borrowing one of the trumpets, set about making such discordant sounds that the clerk of the works came up and expostulated: "If that row continues," he said, "my workmen threaten to go on strike and if they do the coronation will have to be postponed." Sir Frederick hurriedly put down the trumpet, and smoothed the workmen by playing a selection on the organ.

Spanish Imports Decrease
The Official Gazette publishes statistics showing a marked decrease in Spain's imports and exports for the first seven months of the year, notably as compared to 1916. The decrease for imports of raw materials, manufactured goods and foodstuffs was from $39,000,000 pesos to $28,000,000 pesos. The exports decreased during the same period from $08,000,000 to $06,000,000 pesos.

With Darks Regiments At the Front

Unequaled as Musicians and Vaudeville Artists

Two days we stayed on there, and two days of superior variety of entertainment in vaudeville. There was the evening when for our benefit the men organized an impromptu concert featuring a quartette that would succeed on any man's burlesque circuit, and a troupe of black-and-white dancers, whose equal it would be hard to find on the Big Time. There was the next evening when the band of forty pieces serenaded us. I think surely this must be the best regimental band in our army. Certainly it is the best one I have heard in Europe during this war. On parade when it played the Memphis Blues the men did not march; the music pouring in at their ears and ran down to their heels, and instead of marching they literally danced their way along. As for the dwellers in the French towns to which this regiment has from time to time been quartered, they are told, while so much when they hear the compelling, rapturous music played with that richness of syncopated melody in which only the black man can achieve, and as the regiment has moved on, more than once it has been heard to keep the unattached inhabitants of the village that the band was quitting from moving on with it.

If I live to be a hundred and one I shall never forget the music of the night of a splendid, flawless full moon. We stood with the regimental staff on the terrace of the chateau in a half-deserted town five miles back from the trenches, and down below us in the main street the boys played the plantation airs and hundreds of negro soldiers joined in and sang the words behind the masses of their turned dark faces was a ring of white ones where the remaining natives of the place clustered, with their heads wagging in time to the tune.

And when the band got to Way Down Upon the Swannee River, I wanted to cry, and when the major, who likewise had a splendid baritone voice, sang, as an interlude, the number "Joan of Arc," in English and then in excellent French, the villagers openly cried; and an elderly peasant, heavily whiskered, with the tears of joyous and thankful enthusiasm running down his bearded cheeks, was with difficulty restrained from kissing him. I saw the soloist and kissing him—Irvin Cobb, in the Saturday Evening Post.

It Makes New Friends Every Day. Not a day goes by that Dr. The Missouri Male Abroad.

A long and patient but vain effort on the part of a khaki-clad driver to induce a mule, drawing what appeared to be a load of laundry, through the gateway of a small hospital, afforded considerable amusement to the boys in blue who were watching proceedings. The mule would do anything but pass through the gateway.

"Want any 'elp, chum?" shouted one of the boys in blue to the driver, as he rested for a moment.

"No," replied the driver, "but I'd like to know how Noah got two of these blighters into the Ark."—Tit-Bits.

Aeroplane Spruce

B. C. Supplies Best Wing Beams in the World

It is a long journey from British Columbia to the battlefields of Europe—and from the stolid tree, for centuries rooted immovably in the ground, to the aeroplane darting swooping, plunging through the clouds—the very quintessence of swiftness and grace.

But such is the journey and such the evolution of the great spruce that grows in the western forests that the scientists have given it the name of Picea sitchensis. It has five other names, the latest of which is aeroplane spruce. The others are silver, tadevater, Sitka and giant spruce. The full grown tree is from one hundred and fifty to two hundred feet high and from five to fifteen feet in diameter.

British Officer's Thoughtful Will

Captain the Hon. Harold Alfred Vyvyan St. George Harcourt, M. C., Irish Guards, eldest son of Lord Roehampton, of Hemsley, Bedford, Kent, and nephew of Lord Northcliffe, who died from wounds received in the battle of Cambrai on February 12, aged twenty-three years, left a valuable estate. Probate is granted to his father. The testator gives: $5,000 to Irish Guardsmen disabled in the war or in need of assistance, to be spent as directed by the lieutenant colonel commanding. $5,000 to the executor for the education of sons whose fathers have been killed in the war. $5,000 to help men disabled in the war. $250 each to his old friends and servants, Pells, Sunvats, Hines, Gibson, Peggs, and Tanner, his soldier servant, Private Gorbey, and Sergeant Henry, Hieve and Nolan, three N.C.O.s of his company. The will made on active service on sundry small pieces of paper, partly in pencil and partly in ink, is dated November 22, 1917.

Victory for Allies Certain

Only a Miracle Could Save Germany Now

"I hope the time will not be long coming when we will talk terms of peace in the royal palace in Berlin," said Right Hon. W. F. Massey, premier of New Zealand. "The world can tender him at Toronto by the civic and provincial authorities."

"We are sure of the result, unless some miracle intervenes for Germany—and I don't think that is absolutely certain."

"Now is the time when we are full of admiration for each other, to keep the nations of the empire together for all time," said Mr. Massey.

Referring to the war cabinet he had recently attended, he said: "When the war ends it will no longer be a war cabinet. It will be an imperial cabinet, in which all the Dominions will have a voice. Before the war we were bound only by sentiment. But the future demands something more definite."

"I think we have come to the time when each part of the empire will give preference to goods imported from any other part. This will do much to build up the empire. Some politicians think the empire is too unwieldy already. I don't agree with that."

"No one longs for peace more than I do, but I don't think this is the last war. The crime which has been committed in Belgium proved that human nature has not made much progress in the last 5,000 years, and until human nature is improved there can be no lasting peace. It is our duty to keep the British empire intact, so as to make it strong in case of another war."

We are partners now with the Mother Country. Each nation must be allowed to handle its own affairs, and each must think for itself, but in imperial affairs each country must work for the empire."

Must Keep On Going

Albion Must Force Their Way Into Germany

Sounding a keynote of "no negotiation without occupation" James W. Gerard, former United States ambassador to Germany, declared there must be no thought of peace until troops of the entente have forced their way into German territory. Mr. Gerard was speaking for the fourth Liberty loan at the San Francisco commercial club.

Rabbit Replaced Wallaby

Red-brown Quadruped Was Grass Pest

Before the advent of the rabbit army from Australia the rock wallaby made its home among the cliffs bordering the Snowy river, where it passed through southern Monaro (N. S. W.) literally in thousands. The little red-brown quadruped was then becoming a grass pest and as his skin was then worth only 4 cents the pest hunter didn't bother much about him. But an interested auction merchant some years ago put a premium on the skins, and the writer and a mate started out one winter morning with about two inches of frost on the ground and every tree powdered with hoar frost for the wallaby ground. The artillery consisted of two guns, one a single muzzle-loader. (The breech-loader was then a rarity on Monaro). By noon the hunters had downed over 60 wallabies. The beasts were so numerous in some quarters that two wallabies occasionally fell to a single shot. Soon after the pest hunter's scent profit, and the work of decimation began. Now these cliffs are silent and deserted, save for Reynard and the eternal rabbit, which crops the wallaby pastures close and from this rough country will never be exterminated.

Why Animals Feel Fear

Only Felt by Animals Which Depend for Self-Defense on Flight

Fear is experienced only by animals which depend for self-defense and species preservation upon flight, according to Dr. George W. Cline, of the University of Chicago, whose chief means of protection is its odor; the porcupine, defended by its quills; the snake, which repels its enemies by its venom; the turtle, which is securely encased in its shell; the lion and elephant, secure in their superior strength, all exhibit little if any fear reaction.

On the other hand, the rabbit, the bird, the deer, the horse, the antelope, the monkey, and man—these are the animals which pre-eminently exhibit fear and an irrespressible desire to flee from danger.

Fear is the mental part of the reaction by which certain types of animals preserve themselves, and it is most interesting in man, who has recently changed from a fleeing animal into a fighting one, and who undergoes often agonizing inner struggles between the newly acquired instinct to fight and the age old instinct to run away.

Faithless in Preparation.—Unlike any other stomach regulator, Farmer's Vegetable Pills are the result of long study of vegetable compounds calculated to stimulate the stomachic functions and assist them at the normal condition. Years of use have proved their faithless character and established their excellent reputation. And this reputation they have maintained for years and will continue to maintain, for these pills must always stand at the head of the list of standard preparations.

Has Two Independence Days

Now that it has become a popular custom among some of the allies to celebrate another Independence Day, the calendar seems to be fairly bringing such occasions. Who would have thought, however, that there was one country on the American continent, Ecuador, which actually boasts of two national days? These Independence Days of the little republic are the 10th of August and the 9th of October, and mark two determined revolutions, the first of which failed, only to spur the patriots, revolting against Spanish domination, to shake it off, a few months later, forever.

Havelock Wilson Says French Will Aid in Punishing Germans for Crimes

J. Havelock Wilson, president of the International Seamen's Union, and leader of the seamen of Great Britain, has made a statement to The Main on the boycotting of Germany after the war.

"No treaty by the allied governments," he said, "could punish Germany for their awful crimes. British territory has not suffered, but the British have sworn to avenge your ruined provinces. The British count by thousands seamen and civilians who have been murdered. The French will help us to avenge our dead after the war."

One of the commonest complaints of infants is worms, and the most effective application for them is Mother's Graves' Worm Extremist.

Chance for Saving Sugar

Save the waste. 12,000,000 cups of tea, coffee and cocoa are used daily in Canada.

If even an average of half a teaspoonful of sugar per cup is left undissolved at the bottom of cups of these beverages the waste would be 12,000 tons of sugar daily!

Use no more sugar than you need and stir your beverage until the sugar is entirely dissolved.

It is estimated that about one-third of all sugars used in the homes is used in tea and coffee. Think it over now is it in your home? Is there a chance for saving?

Mother is Well Now

Your Noise Does Not Disturb Me Any More—It is a Pleasure to Hear You Romp and Play.

"It is like a dream now to think of the long, weary months I spent in nervous helplessness. Some days I would be cheered by feeling better, but only to slip back again, and to be more than ever discouraged."

"I had always been very active. Had a wide acquaintance and did much entertaining. In addition to helping in what ever was going on at the church, there was Red Cross work to be done, and all the time I had my little family to look after and could not get help."

"I suppose I tried to do too much, for I got so I could not sleep at nights and always felt tired out in the mornings. Then I would have headaches and did not seem to care for my meals."

"Instead of the usual ambition and energy I found myself putting off the duties of the day. I got behind with the housework, and this worried me."

"I did not think that I was sick, but only tired. However, the time came when I did not get up in the morning. I simply could not. The doctor came and said, 'Nervous Prostration.' It seems I had kept on the go until the nervous system was wrung dry of all nerve force."

"Then came the long, weary weeks, and weeks dragged into months, without finding much improvement. I was completely discouraged and almost devoid of hope."

"But one day a friend told me of her experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and she was so sure that this treatment would do me good that I decided to give it a chance."

"I need scarcely say that there were some dark, discouraging days after beginning the use of the Nerve Food, but as my appetite and digestion improved I felt that I was gradually getting back the old-time vigor. Sleep became more natural and refreshing. The dark days passed and I began to take a more cheerful view of the future. Then I began to plan what I would do when I got around again. The house must be decorated and the children brought home, for I had to send them to my sister's on account of the way their noise disturbed me."

"Now I feel that I am entirely well again, and without hesitation give the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I cannot tell you the pleasure it gives me to be restored to my husband and children after the long period of helplessness."

So far November has been a delightful winter month.

Next Monday evening is set for the nomination of Chinook's council for the ensuing year.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Oxley are leaving this week for the Coast, for the winter.

Among the near end-war casualties appeared the name of Corp. L. A. Whitlock, of Oyen, gassed.

Mrs. (Dr.) Paul left on Monday morning to spend the winter with her mother at Kingston, Ont. She was accompanied by the Dr. as far as Calgary.

Drop in the Advance office and see our selection of Xmas and New Year's cards. They make a nice and suitable remembrance to your friends, and at a reasonable price.

As far as the village is concerned the flu epidemic is about over. Here's hoping that the flu has fled away for good. A few cases are still coming into the hospital from the country.

Mrs. S. H. Smith, who for the past three weeks has been nursing her mother, sister and two children, at Wayne, through an attack of influenza, returned home on Sunday morning. All her patients are now doing well.

We regret to learn of the death of Reginald Dunkley, in the 25th year of his age, which sad event occurred at the home of his parents, Calgary, on Monday, Nov. 25th. The deceased was well known here, and was formerly a resident of Big Stone.

Cereal, our sister village to the east, and district, is being very greatly afflicted by the Spanish influenza epidemic, and we regret to learn that one of the latest fatal cases is that of Mrs. Elford, wife of Cereal's druggist, and a citizen who will be greatly missed from the community. We can ill-afford to lose our good citizens from our small towns, and the sympathy of our citizens goes out to the bereaved husband, who mourns the loss of a noble and affectionate helpmate, under such unlooked for circumstances.

Better Be Sure Than Sorry

At Port Colborne, Ont., which has been a great sufferer from the influenza, The ban was lifted by the local board of health a few days ago, the epidemic being considered safely over. The report comes that it has broken out again, with 50 new cases and three deaths. The same thing is reported nearer home, where a dance was held; some of the dancers breathing out death and destruction to the rhythm of the waltz. It is reported that three deaths occurred a day or so later and they are fighting the flu all over again. It is much better to be sure than sorry later.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Dell desires to tender their heart-felt thanks for the help of their kind friends and neighbors during their recent illness from influenza, which is very much appreciated by them.

MONEY TO LOAN

Ogler, Hammond and Nanton, general agents for North of Scotland and other Mortgage Companies have $50,000.00 invested in farm loans in the West, the returns from which they re-invest in the same way. They have lots of money now. Their inspector, Mr. Sweeney, who was in the district a few days ago, says "They have barrels of money, and that no good loan will be refused."

Let them renew the loan you have on your homestead, and give you more on your pre-emption, give you money to prove it up if you wish. Or let them give you a new loan, as large, and probably larger, than you can get elsewhere. The district needs all the money we can get hold of in this way. Pay up your indebtedness to the bank, to the municipality, to the school, and to others. We can furnish the money. Loans for five years, repayable in three years, without extra charge. Interest at 8 per cent.—nothing but the interest to pay each year.

Spend the Winter at the PACIFIC COAST

Beautiful, busy cities, sports of every kind that you may enjoy as a spectator or a participant. Good roads, boat tours, and a mild temperature—all are awaiting there to give you vigor and a new understanding.

But "How to Go" is just as important as "Where to Go."

The New Scenic Highway

of the Canadian Northern is one of grandeur, and nowhere in the journey of 700 miles from the gateway to the Rockies, clear to the Pacific, does it grow monotonous or time-wasting heavily.

Best in equipment, dining car service, standard sleeping cars and newest in tourist cars and day coaches, electric lighted observation cars.

Reservation and all information about Low Fares, etc., from agent.

BACK HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

A visit home is a big event in one's life at any season, but at Xmas—the one time of the year for a family reunion—the folks back East are most glad and anxious to see you. They build upon your coming the whole year, and as the time grows nearer, a great deal of pleasure is given both you and the ones back home out of a mere anticipation of it.

Take a Vacation and Enjoy Yourself

But your trip will not be complete without your ticket reading Canadian Northern Railway

The Lake Shore Route—It has the finest attractions from a tourist's point of view

Liberal stop-overs, first-class tickets, choice of routes. Excellent service, standard electric lighted trains, Observation cars, Winnipeg to Toronto, best standard sleepers
